

Lost Little Girl

I once knew a girl
Who used to run
Whenever she was scarred
She would always go to the stars and speak to higher above
She was so young and innocent
Could not believe her strength within herself
She would keep peace within her family
She'd go to any length
Try as though she might
She could never make things perfect
She always gave her all
Much more than you'd expect it
Just so bright and happy
You'd never know her pain
She'd never let you in
Never would complain
One day that precious little girl,
Her eyes turned cold as ice
She'd taken all that she could take
Make no more sacrifice!
They'd caused her so much more than tears
They'd caused her so much pain
She'd cut herself to get relief
Still, She'd not complain
You'd never know her pain was there...
Only the higher above did....
He was there to help her enjoy life to the fullest now
When she allowed HIM into her life, her life changed
The day the pain was gone.
She used to swallow pain and carry hurt
Inside her soul was dying
Someone tell this little girl
That the higher above will take care of it all.

You left footprints on my soul.

One day unexpectedly
Your feet stepped onto
The sands of my soul

And left footprints of love
